Impact due to the crisis in Ukraine

Dear Sir or Madam,

we are following the current situation in Ukraine with great dismay. Our thoughts are with those people who have lost their homes, their families or even their lives in these days. We hope that this terrible conflict will end as soon as possible.

Some global supply chains have been extensively disrupted because of this crisis. We are working at full speed to ensure the supply of our customers by using a broad network of suppliers. Currently we are not feeling any significant impact on direct material supplies.

However, in view of the escalating situation and the extensive embargo regulations, material shortages, extended delivery times and increased prices of energy, raw material and logistics might occur in the near future.

In this case, we kindly have to ask you for your understanding that we can only confirm delivery times, quantities and prices for new orders without obligation and under reserve. Should our suppliers increase prices drastically, we are forced to adjust our prices as well.

Due to the dynamic developments, we cannot make any predictions. It is currently not foreseeable when the situation will ease again. We are reviewing and evaluating the situation day by day. We will keep you informed about the development on the raw material market, our delivery situation and the potential effects on your orders.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact our sales team.

Kind regards,

E. Wehrle GmbH
